Dear Customer,
further to our previous communication regarding the instability of the oil sector, we would like to inform you that the critical scenario described has unfortunately shown no signs of improvement.

Despite our efforts to internally absorb the increases in raw materials (polyethylene, polypropylene, PVC, resins and gelcoat) as well as logistics costs, the ongoing pressure on international markets now requires us to implement the safeguard measures previously announced. Therefore, for all orders received starting from May 1st, a specific surcharge named “Oil and derivatives surcharge” will be applied on the invoice, equal to 5% of the value of the goods.

As anticipated, we have chosen not to modify our price list, but instead to introduce this separate item in order to ensure maximum transparency. It will be our responsibility to reduce or remove it as soon as market conditions stabilize.

Your sales representative remains at your complete disposal for any further details or clarification.

Confident in your understanding of the necessity of this measure to ensure continuity and quality of our supplies, we remain,

Kind regards,
